It is my view that good quality career advice is imperative in ensuring students follow the career path that is right for them”.

“This really is a great resource!

The My Career Match is more increasingly becoming my ‘go to’ tool in my pathways counselling. The thing that makes this resource stand out for me is its simplicity and accuracy. I can hand this out to my students during a counselling session and have complete confidence that questions are quick, simple and easy to follow. The fact that I receive a copy of the student report is paramount to me also as it allows me to use my counselling time more effectively. It’s a fantastic resource and I wouldn’t be without it!!”.

“I have used MyCareerMatch as a career development resource with Year 10 – 12 students for eight years. Having worked with a number of on-line profiles, MyCareerMatch is my preferred choice, offering me a tool that is cost effective and empowering. On average, our students rate the program at least a seven out of ten for accuracy.

MyCareerMatch can help steer students towards career pathways that suit them, or at least work as a conversation starter between students, counsellors, teachers and their parents. MyCareerMatch is a strength-based profile (with engaging visuals) that serves to build confidence whilst helping students imagine their future of career success.

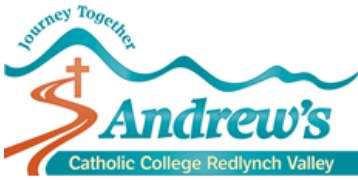

From start to finish (including print out copy), this program can be delivered in one class module. The MyCareerMatch program offers schools additional resources at no charge including resume/CV development, links to universities, as well as industry specific information.

I believe the program offers value for money and I have seen the evidence of its success as a career exploration tool”.

"St Andrew's Catholic College, Redlynch mainly uses MyCareerMatch with our Year 10 (14-15 years) who are preparing to choose their subjects for Year 11 and 12. It is a tool we use in our Career program to help our students explore the abundance of careers available to them.

I also use it with individual Year 11 & 12 Students who are still unsure about what career path they would like to take. MyCareerMatch is very comprehensive as it looks at personality, strengths and interests and matches students with many possible career opportunities. It then allows students to explore these career opportunities by linking them to the Job Outlook site which is a government website. This website assists students to investigate specific careers, find out pathways to securing the career, average annual salary and job prospects.

Our students have really responded to the program and some students have even chosen a career pathway they never knew existed until they had completed MyCareerMatch. It is an easy tool to use, it emails the students and myself a comprehensive report and we have not encountered any problems with it".

"We have found My Careers Match and Discover Me to be invaluable engagement tools, allowing us to provide meaningful insight to young people that is personal, and relates directly to their needs. Teachers, careers advisors and students themselves respond very positively, often commenting that the tools give them unique insight into their future choices and personality.

We have recently worked with My Career Match to align the Discover Me tool to our Make Your Mark campaign, and their flexibility and knowledge has meant that the process of re-branding and ensuring that the tool was delivering against our specific needs was very simple. Colleagues at My Career Match have been consistently responsive, helpful and enthusiastic throughout our interactions with them".

“I used career match last week with year 10 classes. We spent a whole day on this project and other career related material. Both classes diligently set about answering the questions and were most excited to get an instant email back. The common comment was “this is so me”. They enjoyed the fact that it was totally individualised to them. The students found it easy to complete their workbooks from the information in their report. We did it in hard copy. Not all students completed the work book in the allotted time, but even the slowest working managed to get through most of it.

Students then planned their option choices for next and the following years. Students took their workbooks home to show their parents. Comments from parents were most favourable.

Comments from students included:

- ❖ Solomon – it was interesting. Part of it was me. I filled in the whole book. I showed my parents and they thought it was cool. Started the day wanting to be an engineer but now I want to be an entrepreneur and I have more info than I had before.
- ❖ Natasha- good as it was what I wanted to be, but also gave me some ideas I had not thought of. My parents said it was alright. It inspired me to find out more information about my career.
- ❖ Danika- really helpful and accurate. I showed it to my parents and we talked about it. It clarified my ideas and inspired me to carry on with what I had wanted to do”.

We implement MyCareerMatch when we visit year 10 students moving into their senior years of school. The testing offers them an insight into the person they are, alongside a list of suggested careers they would be well suited to. In turn it helps them with senior school subject selection and opens up students minds to the careers on offer and the potential of where they could go throughout their careers. It is also a great tool to link the students to our website to learn more and find out what they can achieve at Avondale.

I have used MyCareerMatch over the past 5 years. MyCareerMatch is a resource that is very easy to administer; extremely easy for students to read. The student profile is emailed to the students and careers advisor instantly and I use the profile with students to learn more about their strengths and to explore suggested careers during targeted careers planning class time and during conversations with students.

The reports have been used by subject teachers who would like to know more about the skills and traits of students they teach, allowing more personalised learning programs to be developed.

Parents also value the information provided in the reports and I find they allow the parent to actively involve themselves in the valuable career conversations, in addition to having a tangible document that can be referred to time again.

A terrific resource, that I can highly recommend.

MyCareerMatch is a user-friendly interest assessment which our students love doing. Students complete this assessment in either Year 9 or Year 10. It provides a comprehensive career profile which is a great starting point for career conversations with parents. The information is clear and concise but what I really love about it is, how positive it is for the students. After a session is completed, there is always a lot of excited chatter as students compare and contrast their profiles. It provides a range of career directions rather than standard prescribed occupations and offers many informative links. Parents find it useful to have at the ready when we have Parent/Teacher conversations, and sometimes they want to do one too!
